The Editor Bow Island Review:

Dear Sir,

Allow me to wish You, and Your Family and all the Readers of your Paper the best things for the Christmas season.

As the Christmas time comes round one is made to think of the various associations of his life and the part each plays in making living worth while, one appreciates friends and tries to show it in some way. We ask if the first Christmas Message "Peace and Good Will to all the Earth" is possible of attainment; even as we think our enlarged and we can only think and feel sympathetically and kindly toward our fellows. Ultimately we believe all malice and hatred and envy will be taken away and the spirit of true love and joy and peace may abound in all parts of the world

Sincerely yours,

Chas. G. Hockin

Prince Andrew Is Banished For Life By Athens Court Martial

London—Prince Andrew has been sentenced to perpetual banishment by the court martial sitting at Athens, according to a Reuter dispatch. In addition, he will suffer degradation.

The refusal of Prince Andrew to obey orders resulted in defeat for the Greeks in the campaign at the Sargaris River, according to general Popoulis. Had the second army attacked, victory was possible.

General Popoulis admitted that Prince Andrew had not been disarmed from life command because he was the King's brother.

A Reuter dispatch from Athens quotes the revolutionary leaders there as denying "the alarming reports of the section and terrorization of the general public." There is no sign what ever of trouble in Athens, the message adds.

Athen's—Prince Andrew and his wife, Princess Alice, embarked at Philonon aboard a British warship. It is understood they will be taken to England.

A semi-official denial of reports of a counter-revolutionary outbreak in Patras and Missolonghi, in Western Thessaly, and on the Island of Corfu, has been issued. It is declared that public order is not disturbed.

Local newspapers publish reports from Constantinople that the Turkish authorities in Thessaly have arrested many Muslem deputies of the former Greek national assembly, who will be charged with high treason.

Sentenced to Death

Man and Woman to Pay Extreme Penalty for Murder of Alberta Constable

Calgary.—You will be taken from the place of your confinement to West Saskatchewan, and on February 21, 1923, you will be hanged by the neck until you are dead. And may God have mercy on your souls.

In these words Mr. Justice Walsh, at the court house Saturday night, pronounced sentence upon Earl Phillips and Florence Lassman for the murder of the Constable Stephen G. Lawrence, of the Alberta Mounted Police, outside the police barracks at Coleman, on the evening of September 21.

Paid off of fare, untroubled, starting into vacancy, the guilty pair had heard the foreman of the jury formally declare their guilt. The lips of Phillips moved, but no words came. The woman uttered a rosy tinge in one hand.

As the judge concluded the prisoners dropped limply to the seat—the woman with a low moan of anguish, the man hopeless and dumb.

Fire Destroys Laval Dental College

Loss Is Estimated To Be In Neighborhood of $500,000

Montreal.—Fire which raged for two hours completely destroyed the Laval Dental and Veterinary College, affiliated with the University of Montreal, causing a loss of approximately $500,000. Eight firemen were slightly injured by flying glass.

The building was a separate one from the main building of the University of Montreal. This is the second fire within the last three weeks at the university and the third in two years. The first fire this year, which occurred about the middle of November, caused damage in the neighborhood of $300,000. In 1922 the entire building was destroyed by fire. There have been strong rumors of incendiarism in connection with the first fire this month.

MOTHER!

Your Child's Bowels Need "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "tricky" taste of "California Fig Syrup." It acts like a magnet on the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If run-off, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, since "California" is so gentle, it is a good cleanser of the little bowels. It is often all that is necessary.

Give your children one or two spoonfuls of "California Fig Syrup" three or four times a day. It is a good cleanser of the little bowels. It is often all that is necessary.

Singapore Repeals Income Tax Bill

Government Will Lose Revenue of Over Two Million

Singapore.—As a result of a show-up public agitation, the Government of the island of Singapore has withdrawn the Income Tax bill for 1923, thereby foregoing an estimated revenue of $2,500,000, which the estimates can easily bear.

Revenue for the year with expenditure at $29,500,000, but the excess of assets over liabilities at the end of the year will be $14,000,000.

London—Lord Blyth, Vice-President of the British Empire Exhibition, in a letter to the Times, says that in the interests of the British Empire the whole exhibition project will have to be abandoned unless every part of the various Dominions is brought into co-operation in connection with it. "In deed," he says, "for the exhibition to be held without the active interest of Canada, or any other community within the British Commonwealth, is not to be thought of for a moment."

Lord Blyth says: "Although the executive may have considered some concessions that should be made in favor of articles not hitherto obtainable within the circuit of the Empire, yet it is indisputable that the wishes of our people must be met, and I have no hesitation in suggesting that a perfectly free hand be given our overseas representatives in carrying out the full views of our own bills and so on. Indeed, I am convinced that in the event of any concessions not being found practicable, the various high commissioners in London had been invited to provide a solution, and that the last word should depend solely upon their judgment."

Canadian Steamer Founders

Eleven Members of Crew Lost Lives When Ship Goes Down

Houghton, Mich.—Eleven men, members of the crew of the Canadian steamer Maplehurst, lost their lives when the vessel foundered near the river, or canal, entrance to the Keweenaw waterway. Nine others were saved by Captain Charles A. Tucker and members of the crew of the coast-guard station at the canal.

Not a single life would have been lost, Captain Tucker declared, if the men on the doomed steamer had acted promptly and jumped into the strongest power boat when he told them to, as he thought it abandoned the Maplehurst, and every man should have taken to his own life boat and went to his death in the lake. The nine others who jumped were saved, while the ten who remained on the Maplehurst perished.

Premier Returned Calm

Cry of Fire Fails to Interrupt Even Terror of His Speech

Perth, Ont.—Premier King proved himself a hero of a new type in the crowded Borden Theatre here when he continued speaking all through a mad rush for the exits which followed the breaking of a door, falling over a cry of "fire." There was no sign of fire, and the light of the Premier still speaking served to calm the audience who had not joined in the first excited rush. The excitement subsided after a few minutes without anyone having been hurt and without damage beyond the breaking of a pane of glass.

New Elevator For Fort William

Storage Capacity At Terminal Is Greatly Increased

Winnipeg.—With the construction of two new elevators during the coming year, storage capacity at the head of the lakes will be brought up to 61,000,000 bushels for the 1923 season. W. R. Bawell, President of the N. Bawell Grain Company, announced here that his company will erect a terminal elevator with a storage capacity of 12,000,000 bushels at Port Arthur. The James Stewart Grain Company also announced recently that they would build a large elevator the next year.

Release Slaves In German East Africa

Systems Is Done Away With Under British Mandate

Geneva.—The British Government has communicated to the secretariat of the League of Nations an ordinance abolishing slavery in that part of former German East Africa now known as the territory of Tanganyika, which is under mandate to Great Britain. The ordinance ends the ordinance amenable by fines up to £20 and imprisonment up to two years.

Design Selected For Monuments To Mark Historical Sites In Canada

Ottawa.—Lieut. Col. C. P. Meredith, architect, of this city, has been adjudged the winner of first prize in the competition arranged by the historical monuments branch of the Interior Department for a suitable design to mark the historical sites of Canada. W. L. Bonessville, architect, Toronto, was second, and an architect from Winnipeg, third.

About 60 architects and artists from all over the Dominion competed. The judges were Post Percy Nibbel, architect, Montreal; M. A. Marchand, architect, Montreal; and Homer Watson, artist. The prizes were $250, $150 and $100.

The design of Col. Meredith is simple, and can be adapted to any locality with the local stone of the district, and built by local masons. It is in the form of a shrine 19 feet high, four feet at the base, with an inset panel for a bronze tablet explaining the significance of the monument.

Increase in Immigration

Ottawa.—Two per cent. increase in the number of immigrants coming to Canada during October as compared with the corresponding month of last year is shown by the reports of the Department of Immigration and Colonization. During October, 1922, a total of 8,220 immigrants were admitted as against 6,115 in October of last year.

Anglo-Greek Relations Broken

Lausanne.—Spokesman for the British delegation here declared that the recall of British Minister Linder from Athens with his entire embassy staff constitutes a break in diplomatic relations.

It will be recalled that it was suggested by the department some time ago that the monuments should be made of concrete, but the outcry from the architects, artists and stone and marble manufacturers was so great that the department did not carry through the project. About 300 monuments will be erected in Canada, it is said. The exact spots for these monuments have not yet been chosen, but they will mark important events in the historic and industrial life of the Dominion.

Report That Germany And Russia Entering Into A Secret Pact

London.—That the Germans are actively planning a war revenge, chiefly against France, for which purpose they have concluded a secret military agreement with Russia, is the main point of a memorandum by a person in close touch with the best informed German circles in Berlin and at Munich, according to the Daily Mail, which appears in it under his headline.

The paper claims to have made exhaustive enquiries into the memorandum's accuracy in Germany, London and Paris, with the result, the Mail says, that it has been very largely supported thereby. Except for pocket details, the Mail's story does not differ materially from similar statements printed from time to time in anti-German papers.

The memorandum purporting with respect to alleged arrangements to enable Germany to utilize Russia's resources, including conscripts, have national reorganization, which will make Russia capable of supporting both herself and Germany, so that Germany may ignore any sea blockade.

It says that German armaments firms will conclude contracts in Russia, whose armies will be equipped thereby, and submarines and mine-layers will be built in Russian dockyards, under German guidance and command by Russian crews under German officers.

Poland is to be crushed and absorbed by Russia, so as to drive Russia and Germany a common frontier.

Bountiful Yields Of Cereals And Other Crops Secured In Northern Parts Of Canada

A large amount of interest is shown in the undeveloped north by people living in other parts of Canada, and for this reason, if for no other, reports from those countries are of great value. When they deal specifically with agricultural experiments, their particular value is, of course, to those hardy pioneers who have taken up land in that section of country or who purpose doing so. This foundation department of Agriculture has just issued a report on the seven sub-stations of the Experimental Farm System. These sub-stations, with the exception of that at Salmon Arm, B.C., are all situated in the more northerly districts and include those at Beaver Lake, Fort Vermilion and Grandin in Alberta, Fort Smith and Fort Resolution in the Northwest Territory, Grande Prairie in the Yukon, and Salmon Arm in British Columbia. There is one other sub-station of a like character at Beauport in the Saguenay Country, Quebec, but at that station experimental work with forage and vegetable crops and hardy varieties of cereals are still in the infancy stage.

In all the reports, conditions of climate and rainfall are fully described, which information, indicating as it does marked diversity of climate—tends considerable interest and value to the experimenter. The sub-station at Beaver Lake in the Grande Prairie district occupies the most prominent position in the reported report. From 1911 to 1912 in the main, the cropping season of 1911 was a remarkably good one throughout the Northwest Territory. The best since 1912 for summerfall and breaking through some of the crops on fall and spring ploughing in Grande Prairie, at least, were very normal. At widely scattered points there were creditable successes, ranging around sixty bushels and over of wheat and one hundred bushels and upwards of oats. Of barley one Grande Prairie farmer claimed eighty bushels. Many crops are mentioned showing that, by inoculation, failure of legumes in that section of country has been turned into a full crop of peas. It has been proved that it is quite feasible to grow the seed of grasses successfully. With "The standard" substation, of undeveloped values from the Division of Poultry at Ottawa, a yield of 11 tons 240 pounds per acre has been secured. Cereals for exchange gave a yield of 12 tons 40 pounds. Varieties of oats and barley were being tested. Corn, sorghum, and sweetclover do well. All kinds of vegetables are successfully grown. A bunch of steers were being fattened for the market with the contents of a newly-erected store.

At Fort Vermilion, Alta., Indian corn yielded 18 tons 700 pounds per acre and sweetclover 10 tons 200 pounds. Vegetables and small fruit flourish to about the same extent as in the Grande Prairie district. A wide variety of hardy trees, shrubs and flowers can be grown in this district. Of six varieties of wheat tested last year the highest yield was at the rate of 60 bushels per acre, of eight varieties of oats 67 bushels 2 pounds, and of seven varieties of barley 68 bushels 15 lbs. per acre, etc., etc. At Fort Resolution, Alta., four varieties each of wheat, oats and barley were sown May 4 and matured with out damage from frost August 5 to 21, the samples of grain produced being excellent. Garden crops, as usual, did well last season, and the day crop appears to be too hard for the successful growing of tomato plants and grapes.

At Fort Resolution, Alta., grasshoppers made their first appearance last year and damaged the crops, all but forcing except potatoes, turnips, carrots, rye grass, broom and timothy do well. Hardy varieties of vegetables also generally succeed. At Grande Prairie, Yukon, various varieties of wheat were tested last year, of which wheat yielded at the rate of 61 bushels per acre and oats at the rate of 41 bushels 50 pounds per acre, the quality being excellent. Locally grown seed of Marquis and Huron was tested and did not do well. Of two varieties of oats one yielded at the rate of 37½ bushels per acre and the other at 45½ bushels per acre. Of two varieties of oats the yield respectively was at the rate of 100 bushels and 84½ bushels per acre.

Many Useful Things Invented By Women

Money Making Articles Are Now in General Use
Few people realize how many clever and useful inventions may be attributed to women. Mrs. Hertha Ayrton's fan for driving back gas and smoke fumes was one of the most successful inventions of the war, while Sir John Thompson's daughter—a member of the Institution of Naval Architects—has also done good work as an inventor. The most notable of Miss Thompson's inventions is a torpedo boat about fifty feet, worked by an internal combustion engine, drawing very little water, and able to do thirty knots an hour. This was constructed in 1916, and with the torpedo it carried proved capable of doing so much destruction to German submarines and surface craft that a large number were ordered by the Admiralty. There are many money-making inventions by women in general use, such as the paper fan, invented by Miss Margaret Knight, of New York, in 1817; and Mrs. Ernest Hart's process for waterproofing fabrics, which has been adopted by the British Admiralty, the War Office, the leading railway companies, and many big business houses.

Blind Men Complete In Walking Race

St. Dunstan's Men, Does 22 Miles in Less Than Eleven Hours
Unique in athletic annals, the London-to-Brighton walking race of fifty-two miles by seven blind soldiers from St. Dunstan's was won by P. M. Cassidy, of the Middlesex Regiment, in 10 hours, 45 minutes, 30 seconds. It was a pathetic, yet inspiring sight to see these sightless heroes start from the Big Ben in the darkness of the early morning, each, alas! made no difference to them.

Nurses from St. Dunstan's were there to see them off, well-known women, who, as their guides, and the A.A., the R.A.O., the N.G.U., and various walking parties present attended to their needs.

Their trip kept in touch with his guide by a broad tape loosely fastened to the shoulders.

Mr. Pink, as the result of the earnest entreaties of the men, organized the event and acted as starter and referee, and as the judge.

For a blind man, the time in which Cassidy covered the journey was marvellous. W. Hirsch, of the 1st Life Guards, was second in 11 hours, 55 minutes, 15 seconds, and J. Ingram, of the South's Highlanders, third, in 11 hours, 5 minutes, 45 seconds.

When they reached Brighton all the men were entertained by Mr. Pink.

Willing To Please
"Your references are satisfactory," observed a merchant, "but can you write me?"

"Yes, sir," answered the applicant for a clerkship, meekly.

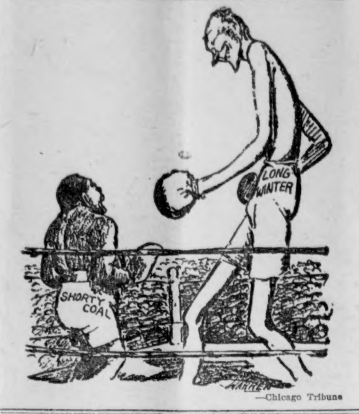

"You understand double entry and can correspond in French and German, I believe?"

"Yes, sir."

"Thump! Do you smoke or drink?"

"No, sir," was the reply, "but I could soon learn if you smoke or drink!"—San Francisco Chronicle.

Says States Should Unite With League

National Folly to Ignore It, States Philadelphia Paper

It is time this country stopped picking its head in the sand every time the world and its work and itself must be recognized. We can and must take official cognizance of its work and its existence, we can and must work with it, whether or not we enter it. Our snubbing of the league has not killed it. Our aloofness is becoming ridiculous. Are we to go along forever dogging the league and walking around as if though we had no existence? That would be national folly. America should enter the International Court of Justice, making as few difficulties as possible, and unite with all nations around the world tribunal of justice—Philadelphia Ledger.

Concerning Toudish and Other Things.

The sight of the satiny, gleaming bodies of the Toudish as they swirled around and around in a path of shrouded water so pleased Pimble (our kind-of-the-Earth-Trouble friend) that he then and there decided to make a little something out of it. He was not a little bit of a poet, but he was a little bit of a philosopher.

He had already been warned from the fright of perhaps missing something! The voice belonged to Pearl, who, as you know, is the Winning Fairy of the Toudish and the Toudish, the Toudish of the Toudish.

"Oh! I'd love to just do it!"

"Well, come along then!" cried Pearl, with a joyous chuckle.

"But I'm afraid of that!" and Pearl's voice came from beneath a large bush.

"I'll attend to that!" You are about to be changed into a little fish, and you shall not have to worry about anything! Besides, you seem to forget that you are guarded against danger not only by my magic power but by Stella's—our partner's—magic power.

"Oh, Goody!" and Pimble giggled nervously. "I shall be—!" But he had already been changed into an ocean subject and found that he could no longer speak in any way but "fish-talk," so that his answer was never finished as it had been begun. All of a sudden, his mouth had become long and thin, his eyes and his legs and arms had changed from their former shape and he was paddling along quite happily in the water alongside of the most beautiful fish he had ever seen.

"This is great!" he gurgled to himself. All around him were changing lights where the sun struck the water.

At he swam he passed all kinds and manner of fish. Some of them had long, thin, snake-like, while others scarcely seemed to have mouths at all. Some of them had no eyes, and some had only one eye.

As they swam along Pearl told Pimble more of Toudish and their habits, and next week's story will tell you what she said.

Pronounced Forward Step In Immigration Activities Is Promised By Federal Government

Year's Grain Crop Heaviest Over Record

Report For 1922 Issued By Department of Agriculture

A statement on Saskatchewan's grain crop for 1922, constituting a general review of the season, has been issued by the Statistics Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

It was the most optimistic report this year. It was as follows:

"With the coming of the heavy snow fall on November 1 and 4, practically all work on the land in Saskatchewan was finished. Excellent weather had prevailed through the threshing season and threshing was completed in good time, with the exception of some areas in the southeastern part of the province.

"The outlook for the remainder of the country affected by drought in the west central district, west of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, has this year produced the largest crop in her history, and it is unfortunate that the conditions under which the crop was produced, have not guaranteed to the farmer a proper and satisfactory return for his year's work. The grain has been marketed rapidly and no great surplus of grain is now in the supply of cash, except at a few outlying points. All grains have been of excellent quality and the returns from the proportion show that the bulk of the wheat has graded No. 1 Northern.

"Fall plowing has been done generally on a large scale, and the amount plowed last year. There seems to be a preference in some localities to discontinue other than plowing. "Livestock is in the best of condition and with plenty of feed on hand, going into winter quarters in excellent shape. Prices, however, are not very encouraging, and large shipments of cattle are reported, farmers being unable to sell to meet their obligations.

"One correspondent in the south central district writes in a very optimistic spirit as follows: "The general financial condition of the people is improved over last year. People have lived closer to the farm, and that is the chief reason why they do not pit and trench soil in this neighborhood space for themselves.

"The necessity for a better method of livestock management is freely admitted if the proper application of this new move is to be made. On the whole, the outlook for the future is in advance, a real step, not an imaginary one, as in former years and hope that the future will be at least as bright with us as we deserve."

"Potato and root crops have produced abundantly and good quality. The necessity for a better method of household workers, but it is estimated that there will be no lessening of the restrictions as to health and sanitation in the household industry."

The minister has not been able to consider favorably schemes for assisted land settlement, but hopes to work out a plan of close co-operation with organizations interested in immigration.

Child immigration is looked upon with favor and activity in this connection will be extended. Orphan children from Great Britain, many of them the families of ex-servants, may be obtained at the rate of five or six thousand annually.

It is hoped to cooperate in bearing the cost of their transportation with the British Empire Settlement Board.

"These," says Mr. Stewart, "are our proposals. We propose to initiate at once an active advertising and publicity campaign in Great Britain and the United States and to extend it into the favored countries of Northern Europe."

White man and black may have more in common than some little red-haired fellow with the great black-backed gull, that notorious robber and sinister-faced bird murderer, a yard long pilot, with a wing spread of nearly six feet, and of each pound that it will fly with a dead lamb.

Small Investment Nets Fortune

In 1870 the negro porter of a New York bank bought two shares of bank stock. After that the value of his shares went up from $100 to $2500 and the number of his shares, through stock dividends from all these years to date, he reaped some $100,000 with an investment of $100,000, all based on that first small investment.

A "pronounced forward step in the immigration activities of the Canadian Government" is announced by Hon. Charles Stewart, acting Minister of Immigration and Colonization. As aggressive publicity in Great Britain and the United States, gradually extended into the Scandinavian countries, Holland, Belgium and France, supported by an effective agency follow-up, is indicated. Special efforts will also be made toward the repatriation of Canadians now in the United States, the securing of female domestic workers and the encouragement of immigration of children from Great Britain. Hon. Mr. Stewart begins his announcement with a review of farm conditions in Canada, which he finds to be fairly satisfactory with respect to grain raising, dairying and hog raising, but disappointing in the beef and stock raising sections. He believes that the worst of this situation is passed and that the removal of the British embargo on livestock and prospects of a return to more favorable relations in this connection with the U.S. promise a return in the almost immediate future to a healthy condition for Canada's agriculture.

After enumerating some of the difficulties which Canada has had to overcome, Mr. Stewart says in immigration matters, chief among which have been surpluses of certain kinds of labor in Canada, a sudden shortage of land, and the fact that the United States and the discount on the capital of British settlers, due to the depreciation in sterling exchange, the minimum wages that these countries have set, are righting themselves and that the time to ripe for further active immigration is now nearer. Home-lands will no longer be the chief magnet, but the efforts of the department will be directed toward setting up of land and productive lands convenient to railways. Efforts will be localized on points to buy land, but a new departure will be taken in creating machinery through the immigration department for bringing returns to direct contact with owners desiring to rent their lands. In this way it is hoped to place the tenant farmer in a position eventually to become a landowner.

Special efforts are to be directed toward the repatriation of Canadians living in the United States. It is believed that many former Canadians who have been attracted to the industrial centres of New England would like to return to their native land, and through co-operation with Provincial Governments it is hoped to repatriate a large number of such settlers.

A vigorous advertising and publicity campaign will be immediately initiated. Increased efforts will be made to attract a few young couples of household workers, but it is estimated that there will be no lessening of the restrictions as to health and sanitation in the household industry."

The minister has not been able to consider favorably schemes for assisted land settlement, but hopes to work out a plan of close co-operation with organizations interested in immigration. The Cratchits' Christmas Dinner

From "A Christmas Carol," by Charles Dickens.

They Tim's active little crutch was heard upon the floor, and back he came, escorted by his brother and sister to his stool beside the fire and while Bob, turning up his cuffs—as if, poor fellow they were capable of being made more slushy—compounded some hot mixture in a jug with gin and lemon, and stirred it round and round, and put it on the hob to simmer. Master Peter and the two ubiquitous young Cratchits went to fetch the goose, with which they returned in high procession.

Such a bustle ensued that you might have thought a goose the rarest of all birds; a feathered phenomenon to which a black swan was a matter of course, and in truth it was something very like it in that house. Mrs. Cratchit made the gravy (redly becoming in a little saucepan) hissing hot; Master Peter mashed the potatoes with incredible vigor; Miss Belinda ascended up the apple sauce; Martha dusted the hot plates; Bob took Tiny Tim beside him in a tiny corner, at the table; the two young Cratchits held chairs for everybody, not forgetting themselves, and mounting guard upon their posts, crammed spoons into their mouths, lest they should shrink for goose before their turn came to be helped.

At last the dishes were set on, and grace was said. It was succeeded by a breathless pause as Mrs. Cratchit looking slowly all along the carving-knife, prepared to plunge it into the breast; but when she did, and when the long expected gust of stuffing issued forth, one murmur of delight arose all round the board; and even Tiny Tim, excited by the two young Cratchits, leapt on the table with the handle of his knife, and feebly cried: "hurrah!"

There never was such a goose. Bob said he didn't believe there was ever such a goose cooked. Its tenderness and flavor, size and cheapness, were the themes of universal admiration. Knead out by the apple sauce and mashed potatoes, it was a sufficient dinner for the whole family; indeed, as Mrs. Cratchit said with great delight (surveying one small atom of bone on the dish), they hadn't got it all, at last!

When the dinner was all done, the cloth was cleared, and the hearth swept and the fire made up. The compound in the jug being tasted and considered perfect, apples and oranges were put upon the table, and a shovelful of chestnuts on the fire. Then all the Cratchit family drew round the hearth, in what Bob Cratchit called a circle meaning half a one; and at Bob Cratchit's elbow stood the family display of glass: two tumblers, and a custard cup without a handle.

These held the stuff from the jug however as well as golden goblets could have done; and Bob served it with beaming looks, while the chestnuts on the fire spluttered and crackled noisily. Then Bob proposed: "A Merry Christmas to us all my dears, God bless us!" Which all the family responded, "After alone on every one!" said Tiny Tim, the last of all.

PRETENDING

I've got a book of history that tells of Queens and Kings,
Of crowns and thrones and battles
and all kinds of thrilling things,
And every day when I get up I choose who I will be,
And all the day I'm someone else, and hardly ever me
And sometimes I am Raleigh,
and sometimes Francis Drake,
And when I fight the Spaniards you should hear the noise I make
At other times I think I'll be King
Harold, good and strong
Or else I'm Richard Lionheart a gallant ing along.

Once was William Shakespeare, and I wrote a lovely play,
It took me all the morning I had such a lot to say
And then I've been Napoleon, and
Nelson, too, of course,
But mostly I'm Sir Galahad and ride
a prancing horse
But every night at 8 o'clock when I am safe in bed
I have to stop pretending things and be myself instead
Cos Mummy always comes to see if I am still awake,
And says she wants to cuddle me, not Galahad or Drake!

Christmas Classic in Author's Hand

"A Visit From St. Nicholas," Written by Clement C. Moore 100 Years Ago and Known to Every Child

Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house

*Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads;
And mamma in her 'kitchen, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our plans for a long winter's nap;
When out on the lawn there came such a clatter,
As to make us just wonder what was the matter—
Twas a noise from the roof, and what was that?
Quarry—'tis the powder I hear like a flash,
Twas upon the shuttle and then up the shaft,
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow,
Gave the lustre of mid-day to objects below;
When, as to my wonder, eyes should appear,
That a momentary gleam, and light they were there;
With a little old man, so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More alive than e'er I saw him, he came,
And he whistled, and shouted, and called them by names;
"Now, Stanzas! now, Stanzas! now, Stanzas and Verses!
On, Stanzas! on, Stanzas! on, Stanzas and Verses!
To the top of the funnel, to the top of the wall,
Now dash away! dash away! dash away all!"*

Sad Death Of Little Donald Gibbons

Donald Gibbons, two years old, son of J.M. Gibbons of Maleh passed away on December 20th, from Pneumonia.

Very much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gibbons in the loss of their little two year old son Donald. The little fellow had a cold but was not really sick until Sunday last, then he seemed to be very cranky but by Tuesday evening he seemed somewhat better, evidently he was suffering from Pneumonia, but early on Wednesday he was taken with convulsions caused by cutting his stomach teeth, from which he did not recover till passed away at 6:35 a.m. Wednesday.

The Funeral Service was held at the home in Maleh about 9:30 on Thursday morning when the little one was brought to Bow Island Cemetery for burial. The Rev. Father McEby officiated.

The parents Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gibbons were accompanied to the grave side by Mr. V. Gibbons and Miss G. Gibbons both of Lethbridge, there were many beautiful wreaths and flowers. The following neighbors acted as Pall Bearers: Mr. Otto Gibson, Mr. McMahon, Mr. McCartney, Mr. S. J. Bull, Mr. W. S. Hare and Mr. A. Stephens.

We also regret to report that the other two little sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons are also very sick with congestion of the lungs, we sincerely hope they may soon be better.

"The Review" tender its deepest sympathy to the parents in this their hour of sorrow.

"Loyalty"

or "Seeking His Lost Master"

You will see at the side, a touching picture of a poor lost dog, called "Billy," Quebec's tramp dog. He is not tramp but a faithful, loving, and intelligent dog seeking his lost master.

Why on earth, his master had never advertised or enquired for him is past all human belief.

This Loyal dog is only a poor dumb brute, but he puts his master, and many others like him, to shame, and this dog sets a pattern of "Loyalty" that is extremely pathetic. It makes one feel that they would like to put him and share their home with this rugged but Loyal friend of man.

"Loyalty" in anyone, we think is the finest and most endearing principle in any man, woman or child—for they can be "Loyal" to God, to King, to Country, to their Town, to their Home, to their Wives and little children, to their Stockkeeper, to the Railway, to the Bank, to the Business of an Corporation or Firm that is employing them, to their own Business, and also to "Loyalty" in their Customers giving them the Very Best Service that is in their power to give.

"Loyalty" is the mainpring of the Universe, and without it we would all cease to exist.

So then let us all be "Loyal"

SEEKING HIS LOST MASTER

"Billy," Quebec's tramp dog, is still seeking his lost soldier master. When the boys came back on the "Empress of France" he and "Billy" became separated and "Billy" has been looking for him ever since. He meets the "Empress" each time she arrives at Quebec, sniffs at the passengers who come down the gangway, walks away with an air of disappointment and then waits for the next passenger ship. Everybody's friend but no man's dog for long, "Billy" has as many names as he has friends, answering with a wag of his tail to "Bum," "Tramp," "Bijou," "Rags," "Paddy," etc. Now and then an admirer takes "Billy" home.

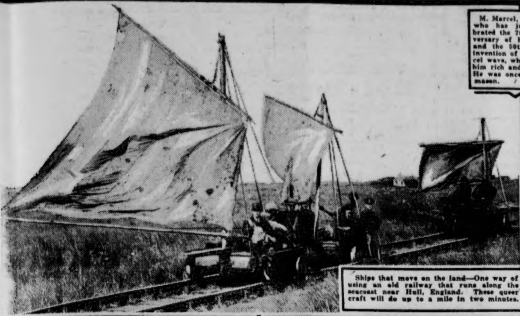

Billy Finds His Master

Quebec's tramp dog, who for the last four years watched the incoming ships in the hope of locating his war-time friends, has at last been restored to his own people. Major Walter C. Lawson, of the 26th New Brunswick Battalion, was a friend of "Don" while overseas and when the dog reached Major Lawson at Minto, N. B. recently, the recognition was mutual.

The story is that Don, a wire-haired fox terrier, attached himself to the 26th Battalion overseas and followed that unit on a portion of the march into Germany. He was lost when his regiment arrived in Quebec on the "Empress of France". Recently come the stories from Quebec of the dog, which haunted the docks and closely viewed all passengers who came ashore, as though looking for some friend.

Major Lawson heard of the dog and, from the description, decided it was a case familiar figure, that called the authorities in Quebec to forward the dog to him.

Rehabilitating the World

The Supreme Council of the League of Nations is making substantial progress with the difficult task entrusted to it of disentangling the complex ruses which for so long have been held subject to the Sultan under the tyranny of the despotic and murderous Turks. Europe and Asia present many international, racial and religious problems, but none quite so difficult of solution as that of the old Turkish empire. It is easy to criticize Great Britain and France because of the decision to leave the Turks in Constantinople, but it is not so easy to outline an alternative policy likely to prove successful and not prove a still more serious situation, and one that might have far-reaching results of a disastrous character. However, the power of the Turk is destroyed, and an end is in sight to the long chapter of Ottoman misrule, rapine and murder.

Having been rescued from the domination of the Turks by the victorious British armies, Palestine and Mesopotamia have been entrusted to Great Britain to be administered under a mandate from the League of Nations, and a national home for the Jews is being established under the protection of the Union Jack. France is given a mandate for the administration of Syria, and the United States has been asked to accept the mandate for oppressed and downtrodden Armenia. Thus to the three most powerful of the allied nations, those enjoying the most democratic forms of government, and actuated by the loftiest ideals, is given the humane and civilizing work of bringing a new era of happiness and prosperity to millions of people who for centuries have been little more than slaves, with life and property in hourly danger of extinction by the unscrupulous Turk.

In this column last week reference was made to the gigantic financial problems which must be solved by the people of Canada before the budget that before this appears in print the budget will have been presented at Ottawa and the policy of the Government indicated as to how the national obligations are to be met. It is inevitable that there must be a further increase in taxation, and Canadians must be prepared for it. But grave as our position in Canada may be, and heavy the burdens to be borne, they are slight in comparison to those of other lands and peoples.

The German budget was recently presented to the Reichstag. The financial burden which the people of Germany must meet in some form or another this year reaches the stupendous total of $2,500,000,000 marks, or roughly speaking, $10,000,000,000, or more than four times the gross national debt of Canada. Yet the German Finance Minister, frankly admits he is at a loss to know how the money is to be raised or where it is to come from.

Italy is carrying an enormous debt. It was heavy before the war, and has been increased many times over. The government and people are meeting it, consequently, and a loan of 20,000,000,000 lire has just been raised by the Italian people.

France, too, has recently floated a loan among its own people of 15,000,000,000 francs, or an amount equal to the national debt of Canada. The French nation, too, is now engaged in passing measures which will enormously increase the taxation imposed on the French people.

With a national debt of approximately $40,000,000,000, Great Britain has started on the great task of paying it off. No further borrowings will be made, but taxation is being substantially increased. This year British revenue is estimated at $7,000,000,000, or more than double our national debt. This great revenue will provide for a reduction in the British national debt of at least $1,000,000,000 in 1921. It is estimated that a further reduction of $1,500,000,000 will be made.

Canada has not yet made a start at debt reduction; on the contrary the debt is still increasing. This must stop, and the work of liquidation of the national debt begun. It can only be accomplished by this Dominion following the example of other countries—curtailing expenditures wherever possible and increasing revenues by increasing taxation. The people must be prepared for this and must accept it without any complaint. There is no other way out. The longer the debt is allowed to stand, the heavier the burden will become. People realize this in their individual affairs; they must appreciate the fact that it is equally true in their national finances.

Notwithstanding the wholesale destruction of the last five years, and the enormous burdens of debt and taxation which must now be borne, the world is still the gainer, because the Great War was the operation whereby the cancer of militarism and the ever-increasing burden of military and naval armaments was cut out of the world's body. The cost of the operation must now be paid for, but the cure affected will give renewed life and vigor to the world, and, by relieving it of an intolerable burden, will ultimately add to its prosperity and the comfort and happiness of all people.

The Need of Fleets

World Needs A Country That is Prepared to Testify to Its Faith in the League of Nations

Even after the United States had declared war on Germany there was a tendency on the part of the United States navy department—if Admiral Sims is to be believed—to allow anti-British sentiment to embarrass the close co-operation of the two nations demanded. It is clear, however, that the professional rivalry of a few elderly men can no more estrange the two great English-speaking nations than can the antipathies of Irish-American and German-American politics. If the mass of the citizens in each country is determined that mutual good-will must be the basis of their international relations. What the world needs badly at the present moment is a country that is prepared to testify to its faith in the League of Nations, and one that is willing to strike at its political enemies. No nation is in a better position to do this than Great Britain, and no nation can better apply the money so saved to constructive, as opposed to destructive, armaments. A comparatively large army we must have for many years to come, if we are to perform our international obligations and compel our beaten enemies to live up to theirs. Great fleets we do not now need as much as the United States does, and, unlike the United States, we cannot afford them. The proud traditions of the navy can well be preserved by strict attention to quality rather than to quantity. A great war between any powers, especially between Great Britain and the United States—is out of the question for another twenty years. By that time the Armadas of today will all be ready for the scrap-heap. What a pity, then, to waste the money.—The Irish Times.

Retiring Fund Provided For in Proposed Ontario Legislation

Retirement from office of all civil servants who have reached the age of 70 years, is provided in a superannuation bill which was introduced by Mr. Dwyer in the Ontario legislature. All employees who have been 30 years in the service, or who are over 65 years of age, may be retired either at the option of the government or themselves. Superannuation allowances to a maximum of $2,000 yearly will be paid such retiring employees.

The superannuation fund will be made up by contributions from the civil service and the government. Employees will be required to pay into the fund a portion of their salary, ranging from 34 percent to 8 percent, according to age.

Employees under 26 pay the minimum and the rate increases for older employees. The government will pay into the fund an amount equal to that deducted from employees' salaries, and will pay interest upon the fund at four percent. The province will bear the cost of administration of the scheme.

Cause of High Prices

The Cure is Beyond the Power of the Legislators

The figures given in the Statist show that the cost of living is still increasing, and that in the cases of 45 representative commodities the present price is three times that of 1913.

In the main the rise is due to more fundamental causes, and the cure is beyond the powers of legislators. The world during the four years has witnessed a general ideal of its energies, the destruction of life and property. It has ceased to devote its surplus income new productive developments; it has used up that surplus and pledged its credit, and has nothing to show for its efforts except an escape from a political spiral. Until production recovers and credit is restored, the relation between the value of money and goods cannot begin to move back towards the normal.—The Westminster Gazette.

SHORT OF BREATH Could Hardly Walk Without Resting.

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble, one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there ensues a feeling of choking sensation, a shortness of breath, a feeling of oppression, a feeling of smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of exhaustion and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart trouble, the patient should at once use a strong Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as this is the remedy you require. They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole system.

Mr. Stephen Crouse, East Clifford, Ont., writes: "I am troubled with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting. I used to get so short of breath. Doctors could not help me. I was told me to use a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different man."

Stock Raising in B.C.

Breeders of the Province are Going In For Purchased Cattle

The breeding of purchased stock for export, is believed to be a coming industry in British Columbia. Development of this new industry is bringing new breeders into the province. New herds are being brought together, the owners of which have a guarantee that there will be an abundant market for blue-blooded cattle, not only locally and in the other provinces and adjoining states, but as well in Hawaii, Australia and New Zealand.

Several head of purchased Holstein cows have been sent to Australia from British Columbia recently, and it is said that Australian stockmen are planning to send their representatives to Canada for the purpose of securing registered Hereford, Holstein and Jersey cattle.

Korean Alphabet

Consists of Fourteen Consonants and Eleven Vowels

One of the first acts of Japan, upon taking over Korea, was to forbid the printing of books in anything but Japanese characters. On-um, the Korean character, is altogether different from the language of China and Japan, and was at first despised because it was "so easy that even women could learn it in a month." The script is "ascribed by Korean annals to the year 1447, when the King of Korea, resolving to assert his independence by abandoning the use of Chinese writing as the official medium of correspondence, invented an alphabet to suit the special requirements of the vernacular. The Korean alphabet consists of fourteen consonants and eleven vowels. The characters are of an extreme simplicity, contrasting strongly with the complex Chinese. There are no pronouns of the first and second persons, the third, with relational particles, serving for both.

Growth Of Fox Farming

Price of Black Foxes Has Taken a Great Jump

The steady growth of the fur farming industry in Canada is responsible for the decrease in the value of a pair of foxes, and well-mated animals are now being sold for $600 a pair, although peak prices ran as high as $2,500, for a pair of exceptionally fine animals.

The average price for pelts, last season, was $275 each, while the variation of prices was from $100 to $800 a skin.

Fox farming is the direct outgrowth of the early attempts of Canadian trappers to hold over foxes, captured out of season, until the autumn became full-furred. Experiments conducted in the provinces of Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario, by J. A. Allen, M.V.M., a animal pathologist, Fox Research Station, Charlottetown, P.E.I., resulted in raising the type of the valuable black or silver fox, which is a sort of the common red fox. The new industry of fox farming followed as a natural sequence.

Although a few foxes have been kept in confinement in Canada for a greater number of years, the expansion of the fox industry did not really begin until 1910. Before this time fox raising was a secret, permit, to which only a few were allowed to participate. The knowledge that the men already engaged in the enterprise were making handsome profits from the sale of the pelts, of foxes which they were raising, gradually leaked out, and a scramble to get possession of foundation stock became a veritable craze.

So great was the demand for foundation stock that the practice of poaching has ceased about 1911, and all available foxes were sold alive. The cost of a pair of foxes steadily rose from $3,000 a pair in 1910, to $20,000 a pair in 1912. During the hey-day of the boom, as high as $25,000 was paid for exceptional specimens. When the supply of foxes for foundation stock became exhausted, foxes were captured and brought from other parts of the country to help to supply the demand, and speculative investors began speculating in futures, and options were taken on unborn pups.

The European War brought an end to speculative trading, and a highly speculative venture was changed into a legitimate industry. So far as the fox industry in this country is concerned, the day of speculation is apparently over, and live foxes are sold for what their pelts would bring or a little more, because breeders recognize that every pair of foxes sold means a competition. The market value of a pair of live foxes, according to the Philadelphia Public Ledger, (1923) is from $500 and upwards, according to quality and performance.

It is estimated that over 600 pairs of live foxes were exported from the province of Prince Edward Island during 1921. At the last selling season the crop of pelts placed at $6,000, and the price obtained for skins varied from $100 to $500, the average price quoted by the dealers being $275.

The Era of Dried Vegetables

Tin Cans May Soon Be a Thing of the Past

It has been said that the process for "dehydration" of vegetables and fruits can be made entirely successful, we shall "live out of cans" instead of out of the tin cans," says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. One of the most puzzling problems in this line has been offered by sweet corn. It has been said that to have been solved, and already that delicious food has appeared on the market in paper packages. It costs the housewife only half as much as corn for canned corn, and the flavor is much more like that of corn on the cob.

Leaving refrigeration aside, we have two methods of preserving food—sterilization and dehydration. The former is represented by condensed milk. The latter is as old as civilization; for housewives for thousands of years have dried kinds of food to preserve them. How ancient and familiar is the dried apple!

In 1920 there were put up in the United States 12,317,000 cases of peaches, 11,241,000 cases of tomatoes and 15,640,000 cases of corn—each case containing 24 cans.

With some vegetables and fruits success has not yet been attained, but the problem seems to have been satisfactorily solved with regard to grapes and most varieties of apples as strawberries, beans, spinach, pumpkins and root vegetables.

Five thousands of quarts of sweet corn will yield one barrel of the dried product. One pound of the latter will make an equivalent of three cans of the canned corn. And this is accomplished in a pound as preliminary to cooking, a pound of dehydrated corn will yield nearly three pounds.

3. Mr. C. E. Abbott, of Bensenville, Winner of Nipigon Trophy.

4. A Pleased Party at Nipigon Lodge.

5. Virgin Falls.

6. Mr. Abbott With His Prize-Winning Spotted Trout.

WHEN Mr. C. E. Abbott, of Bensenville, Alabama, invited Mrs. Abbott and their two sons to a fishing spree on the Nipigon River, he expected he was asking them to some fine fishing and resort recreation. He would be sure of that at the Nipigon, at any event. But the party did run into some extra good fishing, with the result that Mrs. Abbott has been internationally famous for years—last to give an element of real competition into the fishing, by the many visitors to the waters, each year. That when the Prince of Wales was in Canada, he spent considerable time resting up along the Nipigon, and that he was made comfortable at the Nipigon Lodge, at Nipigon, now one of the chief resorts and starting point for fishermen in the Nipigon waters. This letter is contributed as a part of the Hotel Department of the National Railway, and Neil McDonald is not only a sportsman of rare reputation, but a host who is rapidly becoming famous.

The Abbott party left Nipigon Lodge during the morning of August 15, landing two hours later at Virgin Falls. There "Jim" Ward, fish raider, attended the guests and at the same time requested the party's fishing licenses. When Mr. Abbott, after a long walk to a two hundred feet above the brink of the falls, and a half mile to the swift water, just at the brink, suddenly saw five and a half ounce red head like a boy, and quickly struck. E. A. Samuels, was in front of me in the canoe, and my line had crossed his. However, he reacted quickly, and "Nick" cleared the line.

When the fight was on, I have never felt anything on my line as heavy as that trout, nor had I ever reeled how helpless one feels with light tackle and a heavy fish hooked. I was using a small "Colorado" spinner with a number ten single hook, and coiled tackle bait. The guides headed the canoe immediately up into water, and I succeeded in getting the fish into the canoe netting. Stripping in line with my left hand, and taking up slack with my automatic reel, I soon had him within fifty feet. When he broke water and rolled, "He big one!" You going to lose him?" said "Nick."

"The Indian was fearful because of the small hook I was using. Down and out went the trout with severity to one hundred feet of line. Again I was able to bring him towards the canoe, but four times he took out so much line I despaired of ever landing him. Once I got him up near the canoe, but he was too deep, and I could do nothing, while the rock-lie was in the water and the rod failed, bent almost double. With another run, he weakened gradually, and I reeled to the surface, and "Nick" with one sweep of the landing net, gulped him in. The fight had lasted twenty-five minutes.

"You could have heard the yell of that Indian for a full mile." Mr. Abbott, pure, had accomplished his objective. There was more fishing, but the big one had been landed, so the party spent the remaining days on the river in a trip down to Pine Portage, running the rapids to route. Some good catches were reeled in. Mr. Abbott capturing a one and a half pound trout, named.

Today, Mr. Abbott's prize, suitably mounted by Neil McDonald, hangs above his desk, a constant reminder, he says, of "wonderful days spent on the Nipigon."

Harmony Of Building

Plans Brought to Completion Only When People Work Together

To build is not simply to put one stone upon another anyhow. To build is to put one stone on another and alongside of a third, and so on, but all in harmony with, and subordinate to, a controlling plan and a remote completed purpose. It may very well be that some humble builder has not with his own eyes seen the very plan. It may be that the poor man could not understand such a complicated affair, even if it were put into his hands. But the humble builder knows that there is a plan somewhere, that somebody has thought out the whole thing, and that unless the world has gone crazy, he is not to build a pile of blocks of stone or brick or wood for the sake of giving them a little change of air; that, on the contrary, the little thing which he is being asked to do is related to the little thing which his fellow-builder is doing, and that to other laborers are weaving circles, until some thing which shall unite and consume all those individual tasks shall have been created in this world—From the Presbyterian Witness.

An Offered Friendship

By Christopher G. Hazard

People have a good deal of acquaintance, but not much friendship. They meet with pleasant greetings, but with reservation. They have heard things about others and have disapproved of observed actions. There are envious and jealousies. There are old grievances and remembered slights. So our common relations are like this; there is a glittering surface, but it won't bear a man's weight; we cannot safely risk the burden of our trouble and need upon it.

So it is surprising how solitary people are in the midst of society. How much men keep themselves to themselves! How few have trusty friends! How rarely does that genial exchange, that deep fellowship, that frank confidence, that use of each other which we call friendship exist! We are so absorbed in self, so preoccupied with selfish interests, so engrossed in our crust and shell of reserve that we know much too little of the superior strength and sweet joy of friendship. God never thinks it good for us to be alone. We were all made for each other. Amid all the infinite variety of personal makeup and disposition here must be a supply of friendship for the blessing of friendship is one of the necessities of life. Everyone longs for it. Even God is lonely among men who do not recognize him. We are somehow cheated of one of the great human resources as we are not enriched by noble friendships. Why should we be so?

Perhaps one of the reasons for our lack of friends is that we do not feel worthy of them. We would like to receive the blessing of friendship, but doubt our capacity to return enough of worth to make the investment in us a paying one to the friend. What have we to return for the riches and graces of character, service and companionship? How could we, with our high ideals of what we expect from a friend, ever satisfy his equally great ideal? There must be some equality between two friends. Are we capable of being a friend? This is a math reason with many of a sort of hopelessness about friendship; they don't see why anyone should be interested in them and they despair of being worthy of a friend.

Here is one of the great attractions of that best of friends, Jesus Christ. His highest title is that of "A friend of publicans and sinners." He went out to meet sinners, and to meet with an offer to come in and share with it and let it share with him. He went out down to our level and lifted all the worth of his wisdom, all the help of his power, all the sweetness of his goodness, all the beauty of his character and personality into the house of our life. With such a great for a friend one need never fear and may always hope. Jesus gives us the power to win with him, and to give him his will not refuse us anything. He can take us as we are and make us into a man with him, and in white. He is our power to be worthy to be called the children of God. And all this is that love for us that never leaves our hearts and follows our sins and sorrows, untidily; that never condemns us, but always helps us. Truly, "There is a friend that sticks closer than a brother." Anyone who is willing to offer Jesus can have his great friendship. No one can be too good to have a friend. What can a man do for all God's goodness to him? Let him take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord; let him take what God is offering him and call for more. The only way to give anything to God is to take more from him!

How Bananas Grow

For some reason, before I went to Jamaica, I had thought of the banana as growing upon a tree, but it grows upon a kind of huge corallo-stalk—walk the size of one's leg and 15 or 20 feet high—out of the fruit from each stalk or plant. When the fruit is gathered the stalk is cut away, and a new sprout from the root takes the place of the bunch of bananas sprouting directly out of the heart of the plant—Barro's Nature Note.

Greenland is a land of ice. It has been accumulating in the interior of Greenland since the dawn of history. It is estimated that at present the ice sheet covers an area of five hundred miles and are on an average a mile and a half thick.

The Toronto University have patented the discovery of Insulin Extract for Diabetes, this is the discovery of Doctor F.G. Banting and Doctor C.B. Best, they are two graduates of Toronto University.

The insulin treatment taken from the pancreas of a pig, is undoubtedly one of the greatest scientific contributions of modern times," said Dr. Thomas Howell, superintendent of New York Hospital, where the successful cure was reported.

A unique triumph of medical skill, one which creates a record in the matter of a cure, has been registered at the Medical College of the University of Alberta, when an eight-year-old girl from Vulcan, Alta., was brought back to life from a state of diabetic coma, from which, so far as is known, there had not previously been a recovery.

This remarkable cure was effected by the use of insulin serum, manufactured by Dr. Collip of the Medical Faculty of the University, and was the result of treatment by Dr. Collip and Dr. Heber Jamieson of Edmonton. Dr. Collip last year, took special research work in this connection at Toronto University, where the serum manufactured at Toronto University, The Toronto and the Alberta Universities are the only two places in the world, so far as is known where this serum is manufactured. The two cures effected have attracted the attention of medical science over the entire continent.
